

DEFENSE & SECURITY

Ottawa Global Marketing's Software List features companies and organizations that comprise the Ottawa-Gatineau region's Defense & Security Industry.

As a G7 capital city and the home of the Department of National Defence, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) and the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS), Ottawa has a solid base of defense & security knowledge. Add to this the world-renowned National Research Council (NRC), Canada's Communications Research Centre (CRC) and Defense Research and Development Canada (DRDC), and you begin to appreciate the valuable resources Ottawa has to offer.

Combined with the largest concentration of scientists and researchers in Canada, Ottawa has the business infrastructure, the resources and the knowledge base to help you succeed. It is a unique and dynamic environment where ground-breaking knowledge and hard-earned expertise from both the public and private sectors combine to produce world-class defense & security goods and services.

Ottawa's decades-long tradition of research & development in the defense & security industry began more than 50 years ago when General Dynamics Canada (formerly Computing Devices Canada) brought a military positioning and homing device to the market. Since then, government and industry along with Ottawa's many institutes of higher learning – and their requisite research labs – have worked together in a cooperative and coordinated manner to actively support ongoing research, development and manufacturing.

This non-comprehensive list represents companies identified by Ottawa Global Marketing, a program of OCRI as being Defense & Security and/or Defense & Security-related within the high-tech industry. We hope to increase its coverage over time. We encourage your comments and feedback. If you would like to add your company to this list or know of a company that should be listed, please contact Ottawa Global Marketing at request@ocri.ca. Complimentary listings are subject to review by Ottawa Global Marketing.

Local Defense & Security Activity

- Defence Research and Development Canada (DRDC) has successfully completed tests and evaluations on their Intentional Modulation on Pulse (IMOP), an electronic unit that enhances threat identification. Conceived and developed by DRDC - Ottawa, the IMOP unit consists of a high-speed digitizer and a fast processor, which is integrated with a host Radar Warning Receiver (RWR). The digitizer accepts a signal from the RWR and forwards the signal samples to the processor, which then matches the signal against its own library and reports an accurate identification using a threat symbol display to the pilots. The unit is compatible with a wide range of RWRs and is also applicable to pulsed and continued wave signals from air, ground and naval emitters. (Source: www.ottawa.drdc-rddc.gc.ca)

- Local company Med-Eng Systems is the world leader in the research, design and manufacture of personal protective systems for Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD, including Chem/Bio blast protection), Demining, Crowd Management and Body Temperature Control. Med-Eng is proud to present the ACE Advanced Clearance Ensemble. The ACE represents a new level of scalable personal protective equipment for soldiers performing a range of operational scenarios during peacetime and conflict. It is ideal for soldiers involved in landmine, UXO and booby trap clearance. The ACE allows the user to choose the amount of body coverage and the type of protection desired. It is fully modular and engineered to be donned or doffed without assistance. (Source: www.med-eng.com)

Local Defense & Security Links of Interest

Defence Research and Development Canada (DRDC) - www.drdc-rddc.dnd.ca

Defence R&D Canada, an agency within the Department of National Defence, provides leading edge science and technology (S&T) to the Canadian Forces. Defence R&D Canada provides R&D leadership both nationally and internationally by providing the Canadian Forces with relevant and timely technologies, while at the same time offering attractive collaborative opportunities to other government departments, the private sector, academia and international allies. Defence R&D Canada operates six research centres across Canada, each with a unique combination of expertise and facilities to carry-out world class research and development. It is well placed to offer innovative R&D across a broad spectrum of defence technologies well into the future.

Since the formation of the Chemical Warfare Laboratory in 1931, DRDC Ottawa's history can be seen as that of an ever changing organization, responding to the shifting political, military, science and technology, business and cultural conditions of the world. The fact that solid research and development could be consistently produced in an environment of continuous change is testament to the competency and dedication of the scientific, administrative and technical staff at DRDC Ottawa. Today, DRDC Ottawa is prepared to build on previous successes and innovations to advance into the future.

Office of Critical Infrastructure Protection and Emergency Preparedness (OCIPEP) - www.ocipep.gc.ca

Established in February 2001, OCIPEP is responsible for developing and implementing an overall approach to ensuring the daily operations of critical Canadian infrastructure, such as information networks and systems, communications, energy, public services, transportation, security.

Communications Security Establishment - www.cse-cst.gc.ca

The Communications Security Establishment is mandated to:

1. acquire and provide foreign signals intelligence;
2. provide advice, guidance and services to help ensure the protection of Government of Canada electronic information and information infrastructures; and
3. provide technical and operational assistance to federal law enforcement and security agencies.

Public Safety and Emergency Preparedness Canada – www.psepc-sppcc.gc.ca

The Portfolio of Public Safety and Emergency Preparedness, together with its partners in criminal justice and security, is responsible for the protection of the public and the maintenance of a just, peaceful and safe society.
